This week there will be three handouts that I need you to complete on short notice.

Announcements:

Make sure you print this syllabus and get it into your binder!

If you do not have your binder ready by now make sure it is done by Monday. I will also talk more about lab books this week so make sure to pick one up. I think I still have some extras in the room.

We are starting in on some new material this week. It might look familiar but we are going into much more depth so stay on top of it. I will be giving some handouts this week that you will need to get done by the next day so be on top of that.
